

A willingness to listen and achieve

“This relationship has been a result of great communication, a willingness to listen and achieve by both sides.”

Project: Junk monkeys has been helping (and working with) Camelot by removing waste from properties.

“We started working with Camelot two years ago when we were approached by Aky (Aqaddas Razak) to help them clear away some unwanted junk from one of their properties they look after.

Since then we have helped Camelot achieve a simpler structure to waste removal by working together and focusing on a positive result for all concerned.

This relationship has been a result of great communication, a willingness to listen and achieve by both sides. Exactly how businesses should work alongside each other.

We have seen our business grow as a direct result of working alongside Camelot and know with certainty that by working together, both companies will continue to exceed their expectations long into the future.”
